About monitoring of compliance

The purpose of regulation in relation to designated centres is to safeguard vulnerable people of any age who are receiving residential care services. Regulation provides assurance to the public that people living in a designated centre are receiving a service that meets the requirements of quality standards which are underpinned by regulations. This process also seeks to ensure that the health, wellbeing and quality of life of people in residential care is promoted and protected. Regulation also has an important role in driving continuous improvement so that residents have better, safer lives.

The Health Information and Quality Authority has, among its functions under law, responsibility to regulate the quality of service provided in designated centres for children, dependent people and people with disabilities.

Regulation has two aspects:
- Registration: under Section 46(1) of the Health Act 2007 any person carrying on the business of a designated centre can only do so if the centre is registered under this Act and the person is its registered provider.
- Monitoring of compliance: the purpose of monitoring is to gather evidence on which to make judgments about the ongoing fitness of the registered provider and the provider’s compliance with the requirements and conditions of his/her registration.

Monitoring inspections take place to assess continuing compliance with the regulations and standards. They can be announced or unannounced, at any time of day or night, and take place:
- to monitor compliance with regulations and standards
- following a change in circumstances; for example, following a notification to the Health Information and Quality Authority’s Regulation Directorate that a provider has appointed a new person in charge
- arising from a number of events including information affecting the safety or well-being of residents

The findings of all monitoring inspections are set out under a maximum of 18 outcome statements. The outcomes inspected against are dependent on the purpose of the inspection. Where a monitoring inspection is to inform a decision to register or to renew the registration of a designated centre, all 18 outcomes are inspected.
Compliance with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Support of Residents in Designated Centres for Persons (Children And Adults) With Disabilities) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Persons (Children and Adults with Disabilities) Regulations 2013 and the National Standards for Residential Services for Children and Adults with Disabilities.

This inspection report sets out the findings of a monitoring inspection, the purpose of which was to monitor ongoing regulatory compliance. This monitoring inspection was announced and took place over 2 day(s).

The inspection took place over the following dates and times
From: 08 July 2015 11:00  To: 08 July 2015 20:00

Summary of findings from this inspection

This report sets out the findings of an inspection carried out in Galway Cheshire House. The inspection originally was intended to be a registration inspection however, given the serious risks identified by the inspector during the first day of the inspection in Health & Safety & Risk Management, Rights, Dignity & Consultation and Safeguarding & Safety the decision was taken to focus on a core outcomes relating to risk. The inspector was joined by a second inspector on day two of the inspection.

Residents spoken with were complementary of some staff working in the centre stating they were kind, caring and patient with them. However, residents were critical of a small number of staff working in the centre. They told inspectors that those staff were disrespectful to them. Residents had logged complaints that staff took a very long time to come to them when they called for assistance. However, those documented complaints did not indicate what measures had been put in place to address the residents' concerns.

On the first day of inspection an inspector spoke with a resident who was critical of the service they were receiving. The inspector found that procedures in place to protect this resident while smoking were unsafe and placed the resident at risk of burns. An immediate action was issued following the inspection in relation to Health & Safety & Risk Management and also Safeguarding & Safety.
Residents' rights, dignity and consultation were not adequately upheld in the centre. Complaints were not managed in a robust way and some residents were frustrated that their grievances were not being addressed. Such was some residents' frustration that on day two of the inspection one resident was refusing to eat or take their medication, another resident told inspectors they would begin to refuse to get out of bed until their issue was addressed. Both residents had significant physical disabilities which would be impacted upon should they refuse to participate in activities of daily living.

Of the six Outcomes reviewed on inspection, four received a Major non compliance and two received Moderate non compliance. The findings of this inspection are set out in this report with an action plan at the end.
Section 41(1)(c) of the Health Act 2007. Compliance with the Health Act 2007 (Care and Support of Residents in Designated Centres for Persons (Children And Adults) With Disabilities) Regulations 2013, Health Act 2007 (Registration of Designated Centres for Persons (Children and Adults with Disabilities) Regulations 2013 and the National Standards for Residential Services for Children and Adults with Disabilities.

Outcome 01: Residents Rights, Dignity and Consultation
Residents are consulted with and participate in decisions about their care and about the organisation of the centre. Residents have access to advocacy services and information about their rights. Each resident’s privacy and dignity is respected. Each resident is enabled to exercise choice and control over his/her life in accordance with his/her preferences and to maximise his/her independence. The complaints of each resident, his/her family, advocate or representative, and visitors are listened to and acted upon and there is an effective appeals procedure.

Theme:
Individualised Supports and Care

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):
No actions were required from the previous inspection.

Findings:
Not all aspects of this Outcome were reviewed during this inspection. Of those that were a number of non compliances were found. These related to inadequate complaints management, policies and procedures. A lack of meaningful and documented consultation of residents’ wishes and preferences in relation to the running of the centre and the service they received.

Residents spoken with during the inspection informed both inspectors at different times that they had been treated in a disrespectful manner by a small number of staff working in the centre. A number of non compliances relating to this are also given in Outcome 8; Safeguarding and Safety.

On the first day of inspection an inspector met with a resident who was critical of the service they were receiving and had told the inspector about poor practices in relation to how they were supported to smoke, this is further outlined in Outcome 7; Health & Safety & Risk Management and also Outcome 8; Safeguarding & Safety. The inspector was concerned at what the resident told them and brought it to the attention of the person in charge and quality manager. Given the serious nature of the risk the resident had experienced an immediate action was issued subsequent to the inspection. On the second day of inspection, the inspector met with the resident who stated ‘they know I reported them’, while the resident did not elaborate further, the inspector was not satisfied that residents were not adversely affected by making a complaint in the centre.

The organisation had a policy with associated procedures in relation to the management of complaints. However, there were a number of non compliances found in relation to complaints management. The complaints procedure for the centre was not centre specific. It did not outline who the nominated person was for the centre or who the nominated person, independent of the person nominated to deal with complaints were.

Advocacy information was available to residents in the form of leaflets located on the notice board. However, there was no evidence that this was a meaningful option for residents or that residents used advocacy services. For example, on the second day of inspection a resident expressed to inspectors their dissatisfaction and distress at being supported daily by personal assistants employed by an agency other than Cheshire Ireland.

According to the resident, they had experienced emotional upset, distress and frustration every morning for the last 10 months while they were supported by a care provision agency that they did not trust or want to provide their care anymore. They had lodged their request to be supported by Cheshire Ireland workers with an external agent with responsibility to address this issue. However, at the time of inspection the resident told inspectors they were extremely dissatisfied with the lack of response and information they had received in relation to their request to change care provision. The person in charge and provider had a responsibility to ensure residents had access to advocacy services for the purposes of making a complaint. The resident confirmed they did not have an advocate that could review the issue on their behalf.

The ineffective complaints management systems for the centre did not only impact on the aforementioned resident, there were a number of other non compliances in relation to complaints that negatively impacted on residents. For example the complaints policy and leaflets to log a complaint were pinned to a notice board the located on the corridor to residents’ apartments. However, they were not accessible to most residents in the centre. The profile of residents living in the centre included those with significant physical disabilities whereby they used assistive mobility devices in some cases, in other cases they were unable to move their limbs or leave their apartments independently. The provider had not ensured there was a complaints procedure was in an accessible format for residents living in the centre. The procedure was not appropriate to the needs of residents in line with the nature of each resident’s disability.

At the time of inspection two complaints lodged by residents expressed their dissatisfaction with how long it took staff to come to their assistance when they called. While the complaints had been documented there was no further information documented of how the complaint was addressed or actions taken.

A residents’ committee meeting folder was reviewed by the inspector. However, it did not contain any minutes of meetings as no residents had attended any of the scheduled meeting dates. The inspector was informed that this was a long standing pattern for residents not to show up and while there was no regulatory requirement for residents to attend a gathering or group meeting to garner their feedback on the service, there was a requirement that residents’ received adequate consultation.

Residents confirmed to the inspector they spoke regularly to the person in charge and consulted with her however, there was little documented evidence of this consultation and this required review given the number of complaints and expressions of dissatisfaction by residents. Such was some residents' dissatisfaction and frustration that on day two of the inspection, a resident was refusing to eat or take their medications in protest, while another resident told inspectors they would begin to refuse to get out of bed if their issue wasn't dealt with soon.

There were inadequate privacy measures on the windows in residents’ apartments. Some apartments were overlooked by houses in the estate in which the centre was located. Their apartments could be seen from the first floor windows of those houses, therefore privacy measures on residents’ windows were necessary. The inspector was not satisfied that resident’s privacy was safeguarded in some apartments, some residents could not independently move or pull closed curtains or blinds on windows and this required review.

All residents spoken with identified some members of staff working in the centre as being very caring and kind. However, residents were not always treated with respect by a small number of staff working in the centre. Inspectors were told by a number of residents that certain staff were disrespectful to them telling inspectors, ‘they are not nice to me’, ‘I am treated like a baby’, ‘they say ‘what do you want’, when I call for assistance’. A resident recalled a time when they asked for their bed linen to be changed and heard one staff tell another, ‘don’t do it’. As a result inspectors were very concerned about the systems in place to supervise staff and monitor the quality and safety of care provided to residents.

Outcome 07: Health and Safety and Risk Management
The health and safety of residents, visitors and staff is promoted and protected.

Theme:
Effective Services

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):
The action(s) required from the previous inspection were satisfactorily implemented.

Findings:
While some improvements had been made since the previous monitoring inspection October 2014, there were significant risks identified in this outcome some of which required immediate action to address. This related to risk of injury from smoking.

Systems were in place on the prevention and management of fire. However, improvements were required. Fire fighting equipment was provided and had been serviced in April 2015 The fire alarm system had been serviced on a quarterly basis. Fire exits were unobstructed and daily checks were completed by staff.

Fire drills had occurred in February and June 2015 but these had occurred during fire training and there had been no drills outside of these times to ensure staff could carry out a response to a fire without a qualified instructor. There had also been no night time drills. This required review and an immediate action was issued for this to be addressed.

There were no emergency lights in residents’ apartments which would direct them to an exit in the event of a fire.

The inspector requested to see the fire compliance certificate for the centre to ascertain how fire compliant the building was. It was confirmed to her that the building was compartmentalised however, the attic was not. This meant if a fire broke out in one part of the building and entered the attic it could spread to other areas in spite of other areas being compartmentalised, this required review.

During the course of the inspection, a resident spoke with the inspector and informed her they smoked and a fire blanket was used to protect them while they smoked. The resident had a neurological condition which meant they could not move their arms and had limited movement of other parts of their body. They informed the inspector that staff put the fire blanket around them, lit a cigarette, put it in their mouth and walked out of the room leaving them unsupervised.

They informed the inspector that the fire blanket used to protect them had been replaced with a new one before the inspection and the other blanket had lots of burn marks where cigarettes had fallen onto it. This was further confirmed by cigarette smoking risk assessments for the resident which documented the procedure in which staff put the blanket around the resident, light the cigarette, put it in the resident’s mouth and walk out of the apartment.

The inspector was concerned at this practice as it posed a significant risk to the resident. The inspector spoke with the person in charge and quality manager in relation to what the resident had informed them and requested to see the old fire blanket. On day one it was unavailable. However, on day two it was available. It had multiple cigarette burn marks all over it. The inspector issued a number of immediate actions in relation to this practice to ensure the resident was no longer at risk.

A risk management policy was in place and contained all the matters as set out in the regulations. A health and safety statement was also in place but out of date since 2008.

A newly appointed health and safety officer (HSO) had recently carried out a comprehensive health and safety assessment of the premises two days prior to the inspection. There were a number of actions which required addressing as a result of the audit. The inspector spoke with the HSO about their plans to address the risks identified and was satisfied their plan would be comprehensive and address issues if implemented by the provider.

An accident/incident report was completed for all incidents and these were reported to the quality manager who produced an audit report with regard to these. The inspector noted a significant number of medication errors had been recorded. This is further reviewed in Outcome 12: Medication Management.
Infection control procedures were in place, there were adequate hand washing facilities and alcohol hand gels available. However, there had been two ant infestations in two different apartments which had been recorded on the incident/accident system. These had been addressed by the maintenance personnel however, there were no proactive pest control systems in place for the centre.

All residents spoken with during the course of the inspection highlighted their concerns in relation to an aspect of security of their apartments. This worried them and the details of this were discussed at the feedback meeting. This risk had been identified by the HSO during their audit. The inspector reviewed this issue during visits to individual apartments and found that residents' concerns were founded. However the provider had failed to respond to this issue.

Judgment:
Non Compliant - Major

Outcome 08: Safeguarding and Safety
Measures to protect residents being harmed or suffering abuse are in place and appropriate action is taken in response to allegations, disclosures or suspected abuse. Residents are assisted and supported to develop the knowledge, self-awareness, understanding and skills needed for self-care and protection. Residents are provided with emotional, behavioural and therapeutic support that promotes a positive approach to behaviour that challenges. A restraint-free environment is promoted.

Theme:
Safe Services

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):
The action(s) required from the previous inspection were satisfactorily implemented.

Findings:
The inspector had a number of concerns in relation to safeguarding and safety of residents in this centre. This was in part due to the practices supporting some residents to smoke which put them at serious risk of fire related injuries and also in relation to residents saying a small number of staff were disrespectful to them.

As mentioned in Outcome 7 an immediate action was given in relation to risks identified for a resident who smoked. A further immediate action was given by inspectors to ensure the provider investigated this practice under safeguarding also. Another immediate action was also given under safeguarding & safety in relation to residents' allegations that a small number of staff were disrespectful to them.

Having spoken to a number of staff the inspectors were not assured all staff working in the centre had an appropriate understanding of what constituted abuse. This required review.
As highlighted under outcome 1 the provider had failed to appropriately respond to complaints and issues of concern raised by residents. Inspectors found that this could compromise the safeguarding of residents.

Non Compliant - Major

The inspector observed where food hygiene and safety was not adequately carried out. A tray of frozen mince meat was left to thaw out on a counter top in one resident’s kitchen. When the inspector asked the resident had they left it there they said they had not. They also informed the inspector they didn’t know anything about food hygiene or safety.

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):
Some action(s) required from the previous inspection were not satisfactorily implemented.

Findings:
Not all aspects of this Outcome were reviewed on this inspection.
As outlined in Outcome 7, there had been a number of medication errors logged in the incident and accident log book. From interviewing staff and reviewing the incidents logged it was apparent there were issues with the updating of medication administration charts to reflect medication changes made by a resident’s GP, for example. Therefore, there had been some instances whereby residents had not received medication they had been prescribed. There had also been occasions where tablets had been found in residents’ apartments which had not been administered to the resident. Medication Management systems in the centre required review to mitigate the risk of medication errors which would ultimately result in negative outcomes for residents in the centre.

Judgment:
Non Compliant - Moderate

Outcome 14: Governance and Management

The quality of care and experience of the residents are monitored and developed on an ongoing basis. Effective management systems are in place that support and promote the delivery of safe, quality care services. There is a clearly defined management structure that identifies the lines of authority and accountability. The centre is managed by a suitably qualified, skilled and experienced person with authority, accountability and responsibility for the provision of the service.

Theme:
Leadership, Governance and Management

Outstanding requirement(s) from previous inspection(s):
Some action(s) required from the previous inspection were not satisfactorily implemented.

Findings:
The Inspector found the current governance and management systems in place required review. The post of person in charge of the centre was full time and met the requirements of the Regulations. The person in charge was supported by a regional services manager who reports to the provider nominee. Management structures in the centre were clearly defined for staff working directly for the organisation but were not clear for the staff that were not.

There was limited scope in relation to the person in charges' management and supervision of staff working directly with residents as some staff working with residents were not directly accountable to her as they worked for other organisations. A memorandum of understanding between Galway Cheshire and one of the external organisations who provide supports for some residents in the centre, had been drafted in February 2015. It sets out that the Cheshire Ireland Service Manager Galway and the other organisation’s Assisted Living Service Coordinator will meet each quarter to review service provision for those people who receive shared services. Other scheduled activities include, the Cheshire Ireland Service Manager facilitated to attend part of the other organisation’s team meetings which would provide an opportunity to review /
While this was drafted to bring about improvement in governance and management systems for workers not employed by Galway Cheshire, it did not address governance issues and instead set out more robust communication systems between both agencies. Residents’ social care, employment and integration into the wider community were not adequately supported, as the person in charge did not have management responsibility for external organisation workers.

There was no management presence in the centre from Friday evening until Monday morning. Residents spoken with told an inspector the centre ran as normal when the person in charge was working but not as good when she was not there. The person in charge was not adequately supported by the governance structures for the centre. In the absence of the person in charge there were inadequate supervision and management systems in place.

The provider had yet to complete a report of the review of the safety and quality of the service as required by Regulations. While a medication audit was carried out, some other audits reviewed were not centre specific but regional and it was difficult to ascertain what centre incidents had taken place in. There was no system of reviewing the quality and safety of the service provided to residents in the designated centre. Inspectors were informed the provider had visited the centre on a number of occasions in the past year. However, there was no evidence of a report on the visits to the centre.

Inspectors spoke to staff and found that they could not bring concerns to management easily. Improvement was required to facilitate staff to raise concerns about the quality and safety of the care and support provided to residents. As highlighted in outcome 1, the provider did not have adequate systems in place to supervise staff and to monitor the quality and safety of care.

Judgment:
Non Compliant - Major
